OF NOTE

National expert on German genealogy speaks at St. Louis County Library

Speaker John T. Humphrey, CG

More than 140 enthusiastic researchers attended the Special Collections Department German genealogical event on Saturday, Sept. 12, featuring nationally-known speaker John T. Humphrey, CG. Mr. Humphrey gave two one-hour presentations. In “Researching German Ancestors: The Agony and the Ecstasy,” Mr. Humphrey examined key problems and advantages inherent in German genealogical research. While language and handwriting are major barriers (the “agony”), numerous detailed records are available to German researchers that are absent in other types of national / ethnic research (the “ecstasy”). The second presentation, “Finding German Ancestors in Published Sources,” provided an overview of key publications available in U.S. libraries, making valuable genealogical information accessible on this side of the Atlantic. The audience clearly appreciated Mr. Humphrey’s expertise and his understandable presentation of the material. The Department has received many positive comments about the program. Copies of the handouts for the presentations are available at the Special Collections Department reference desk.

Resources available in the Special Collections Department

Many of the sources mentioned by Mr. Humphrey in his presentations are available in the Special Collections Department, including the following:

ADAC MaxiAtlas Deutschland, located on the Departments atlas stand.

Anderson, S. Chris and Ernest Thode. A Genealogist’s Guide to Discovering Your Germanic Ancestors: How to Find and Record Your Unique Heritage.

Ortsippenbücher (genealogies of families from specific villages): the Department currently has more than 150 titles in this growing collection. Inquire at the Special Collections Department reference desk to see a title list.

The Department is in the process of acquiring other materials mentioned by Mr. Humphrey. New acquisitions are announced monthly in the “New in the Special Collections Department” section of PastPorts.

The Department has many other resources for German genealogy. Research guides are available on the Special Collections Department website < <http://www.slcl.org/branches/hq/sc/guides.htm>> and in the Department.

Research guides now available on Department website

Research guides for the Special Collections Department are now available on the Department’s website < <http://www.slcl.org/branches/hq/sc/guides.htm>>. The guides, which can be downloaded as PDFs and printed, were prepared by Department staff members and feature resources available in the collection. Out-of-town researchers will find them useful to review before visiting the collection or as general overviews of sources available in specific areas of genealogical research. Paper copies are also available for free in the Special Collections Department.

Scanning capabilities added to more microfilm readers

The Department has added PCs with scanning software to four microfilm readers, bringing to five the number of readers with such capabilities. Patrons can use a microfilm reader-PC combo to scan images from microfilm and save them to flash drives.

FOR THE RECORDS

Hallowed Grounds

As October proceeds, decorations featuring tombstones, graveyards, and skeletons will begin appearing in anticipation of Halloween. The spooky festival, originally known as “All Hallows Eve” itself anticipates religious observances commemorating the dead on All Saints (All Hallows) Day (Nov. 1) and All Souls Day (Nov. 2). The festivals coincide with falling leaves, signaling the arrival of autumn weather with cooler (CONTINUED ON NEXT PAGE) temperatures and crisp sunny days. What better time of the year is there for scouting out cemeteries? The Special Collections Department has numerous resources to help prepare for autumnal graveyard excursions.

For a general overview of graveyards, Sharon DeBartolo Carmack's Your Guide to Cemetery Research (Cincinnati: Betterway Books, 2002; call no R 929.1 C287Y) offers a comprehensive handbook to genealogical research related to death and burial. Chapters cover the types of records created by a death, locating and searching cemeteries and graves, the meaning of tombstone inscriptions and symbols, burial customs, and even tips for holding a family reunion in a cemetery. The book includes several useful appendices, including an historical medical glossary, case studies using cemetery records, and historical timelines of diseases and epidemics in America.

The most prominent physical feature of cemeteries, of course, is tombstones. Researchers interested in their symbolism will find Douglas Keister's Stories in Stone: A Field Guide to Cemetery Symbolism and Iconography (Salt Lake City: Gibbs Smith, 2004; call no. 731.549 K27S) a good read. Through text and attractive color photography, the author investigates the variety of symbolism and iconography found on grave memorials past and present. Chapters include information on the meaning of symbols incorporating flora, fauna, human body parts, and those used by secret societies and religious organizations. The book is topped off by an intriguing look at some unusual and unique grave monuments. A helpful glossary of acronyms for societies, clubs and other organizations commonly found on tombstones is included.

For information specific to St. Louis cemeteries, Ann Morris provides a well-researched and thorough investigation in Sacred Green Space: A Survey of Cemeteries in St. Louis County (St. Louis: A. Morris, 2000; call no. R 977.865 M875S). An introductory chapter provides an overview of the history and development of area cemeteries and includes information about state cemetery laws and preservation activities. The remainder of the book surveys each cemetery, providing its location, legal and physical description, and its history and significance. Some descriptions include photos and maps.

Although cemeteries are often interesting in themselves, for genealogists they are also a primary source of key data. The Special Collections Department has many resources to aid

St. Louis researchers in this task:

- St. Louis death records on microfilm, 1850-1909. Deaths Recorded in the City of St. Louis, 1850-1908, an index created by the St. Louis Genealogical Society, is available on public PCs in the Department.
- Church records can provide important death and burial information. The Department has records on microfilm for Catholic parishes in the Archdiocese of St. Louis and the Diocese of Belleville, Ill., and for many St. Louis Lutheran and United Church of Christ congregations.
- St. Louis City coroner's records, 1845-1900 and St. Louis County coroner's records, 1940-1990 on microfilm.
- St. Louis Burials, Vols. 1 and 2, available on public computers in the Department, provides an index to burials in many St. Louis City and County cemeteries.
- Records for many St. Louis cemeteries are available on Department microfilm. Holdings can be viewed on the Department's website <<http://www.slcl.org/branches/hq/sc/cemeteries.htm>> and in finding aids in the Department.

For areas outside of St. Louis, the Department has cemetery indexes and abstracts for individual counties and localities in many states. Cemetery information is shelved with other materials from the same county. Check the library's online catalog <<http://webpac.slcl.org>> or contact the Special Collections Department for assistance in locating these materials.

TIPS

■ Although Ancestry offers a database called "St. Louis City Death Records, 1850 – 1908," there are differences between it and the St. Louis Death Registers: Deaths Recorded in the City and County of St. Louis, 1850–1908 produced by the St. Louis Genealogical Society in 2004 and available on public PCs in the Special Collections Department:

- Ancestry's online database includes records only to 1901 despite the title.
- The CD includes deaths of people who died outside of St. Louis and then were returned to the city for burial; Ancestry's version does not.

- The CD includes deaths from St. Louis County after 1876; Ancestry's version does not.
- Spelling corrections were made on the CD that were not included on Ancestry's version.
- If you cannot find a death in Ancestry's online database, check the death record index on the CD.

■ St. Louis County marriage records can be tricky to find. Here is an overview of the records' arrangement.

- From 1877–1880, marriage records from the county are included in roll no. SLCOM-2. The records are those entered into the marriage register; licenses were not yet required.
- From 1881 through 1939, records are organized first by year and then alphabetically by the first letter of the groom's last name. The records include licenses and frequently license applications.
- From 1940 through 1980, the licenses and applications are organized by the license number.

Looking for Mt. Olive Cemetery burials? At the end of St. Louis Funeral Home Records, microfilm roll 5, item 5 is a book labeled "Mt. Olive Cemetery Deed Records." This is essentially an index with the name of the purchaser and the lot number but no dates.

■ Beware of indexing errors in Pitzman's 1878 Atlas of the City and County of Saint. Louis, Missouri. Some page numbers in the index appear to be transposed. For example, the index lists some landowners as being located on the map on page 53. The digits of the page number are transposed and the correct map is actually on page 35 (Meramec TP, Twp.. 45 N, Range 3 East). Page 53 shows enlarged maps of Sappington and Meramec. Property owners on the page are correctly listed in the index, which adds to the confusion. The moral of the story is, if you cannot find your person on a page referred to in the index, then try transposing the digits and look on that page.

WEB NEWS

Web finds

■ Montgomery County (Illinois) Historical Society <<http://history.montgomeryco.com/Home/tabid/306/Default.aspx>>: The Montgomery County Historical Society website features a collection of online databases, including some with digital images. Offerings include a death certificate index, 1877-1950, 1825 Illinois State Census for Montgomery Co. with digital images, land ownership and military records, and digitized books.

■ St. Louis Chapter of the Society of Architectural Historians <<http://www.stlouisarchitecture.org>>: Anyone interested in architecture in general and St. Louis architecture and architectural history in particular will find this site very interesting. Besides photos and pages with data about local architecture and architects and access to downloadable newsletters, the organization also provides information about architectural tours in and around St. Louis that are open to the public.

New on Ancestry

■ London, England, Baptisms, Marriages and Burials, 1538-1812: This database includes images of parish registers in London, England. The names have not been indexed but the data can be browsed by parish name.

■ London, England, Marriages and Banns, 1754-1921: A new searchable database featuring both marriage records and banns from London churches with record images.

■ Ontario, Canada Marriage Registers by Clergy, 1896-1948: Search or browse 18 volumes of marriage registers compiled under the Registration Act of 1896. The database contains more than 12,000 records compiled by Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian ministers. Marriage registers include images of the original records.

Footnote Spotlight

Footnote.com is the newest addition to SLCL's subscription databases. Here is one collection you might find useful:

■ Civil War Service Records: Complete files for the Civil War service records for Union and Confederate soldiers are accessible through this database. The database, not yet complete, includes 17,756, 664 images to date with more being added daily. Some of the records available currently are Missouri Union (63% complete), Georgia Union (complete), Arkansas Union (85% complete), Missouri Confederate (complete), Tennessee Confederate (97% complete), and Virginia Confederate (99% complete). Check this database often, as more records are added daily.

NEW IN THE SPECIAL COLLECTIONS DEPARTMENT

The following is a selection of new items added to the collection. Additional items may have been received which are not listed here. The Department is grateful to the St. Louis Genealogical Society, the National Genealogical Society, Julius K. Hunter and Friends, and our patrons for their donations. Please note: Due to processing and binding requirements, some donated items may not be available in the library or listed in PastPorts until several months after they are received.
